Police officers from rookie to veteran have all experienced poor leadership that may lead to bad decisions and have career-long implications. Leaders influence and navigate their unit's path, and their direction can mean success or failure.

Current and future leaders attending this class will define good leadership and explore seven tenets that will help them maximize their capabilities as a leader. Students in this course will evaluate case studies, participate in group discussion, role play to demonstrate key points of leadership, further develop their strengths, and address their weaknesses in leadership positions.

This course is designed for current and future police administrators and supervisors, as well as those in agencies peripheral to law enforcement. In this course, you will learn about:

- OBJECTIVITY
- RESILIENCY
- VISION
- HUMILITY
- INTEGRITY
- COMMUNICATION
- COUNSEL
- SCENARIOS / CASE STUDIES
