Identifying & Leading At-Risk Employees

This exploratory, interactive course will educate law enforcement members on the latest information regarding alcohol/drug abuse, post traumatic stress, stress/anxiety, depression, and suicide within the law enforcement community. With increased knowledge, police organizations can create and improve current policies and programs to encourage those in crisis to seek help to remain productive and contributing members of their organization.

Emotional Intelligence for Law Enforcement

Current research indicates that emotional intelligence (EI) can be a better indicator of success than IQ (intellect) alone. This course will provide an understanding of what EI is, how it applies to individuals, how to develop strategies for improvement of EI, and how to take what they have learned and apply it in their personal and professional lives.
