ADDITIONAL COMMENTS

Trash was located on the housing unit floors and in the showers. The walls on the housing units and interior cells had excessive writing on the walls and they are in need of painting. Water from the upper level showers is not being contained in the shower area. It is running out and following the seams in the concrete where it runs to the lower level. This is causing rust to develop and paint to peel as well as a possible structural problem if it is not addressed. The water that is coming out of the shower and running to the lower level is also creating a safety concern. HVAC ceiling vents and the surrounding ceiling tiles need to be cleaned.

Staff need to be diligent when inspecting the housing units and ensure daily housekeeping duties are being performed. Staff also need to address inmate misconduct such as graffiti.
